College Selects M. P. Campbell As May Queen

Statue of Blessed Virgin To Be Crowned May 23

Matty Pat Campbell, Prefect of the Sodality, has been chosen May Queen for the traditional crowning of the Blessed Virgin which will take place the evening of May 19. Miss Campbell, daughter of Mrs. G. L. Campbell, 5125 Walnut, is a graduate of St. Teresa's Academy and will graduate from the college in June. Always active in college activities, she was associate editor of the Teresian for three years. During her junior year she was president of her class. Although she spent most of her time with the Sodality, she has also been active in the International Relations Club.

Procession to Grotto

The procession will be led by Helen Jane Gray from Donnelly Hall to the grotto where Marjorie McGonigle will crown Matty Pat who will crown the statue of Our Lady.

The Queen will be proceeded in procession by eight girls bearing daisy chain, eight maids chosen from the college, and four maids chosen from the academy Sodalists. The chain bearers are: Louise McNelis, Betty Kearns, Katheen Crooks, Pat

Mathews, Mary Sullivan, Mary Catherine Gilwee, Catherine Mulvihill, and Pat McDonnell. The college maids of honor are: Kathleen Froeschl, Germania Izurieta, Peggy Jones, Eva Schekorra, Mary Ann Miller, Jean Male, Joan Geraghty, and Mary Schorfheide. Those from the academy are: Ruth O'Gara, Pat Wren, Jean Malsie, and Barbara Wuerth.

Benediction will be celebrated by Msgr. T. B. McDonald. The deacon for the services will be Rev. J. J. Killgallon and the sub-deacon is Rev. Kenneth McDonald.

Karen Sue Miller will carry the crown for the queen and for Our Lady.

R. Flanigan Elected to N.F.C.C.S. Office

Miss Rosemary Flanigan, C.S.T. junior, was elected vice-president of the Central Mid-West Region at the annual Spring Congress of the N.F.C.C.S. held at St. Benedict's College on April 12 and 13.

Retention of the Inter-American Commission was granted to the College of St. Teresa for the coming school year, but the commission on the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine was interchanged with Mount St. Scholastica College.

Officers Elected

Other regional officers elected at the N.F.C.C.S. Congress were: Joe Jares, president, St. Benedict's College; Valaria Scott, corresponding secretary, Mount St. Scholastica, and Rita Marcil, recording secretary-treasurer, Creighton University.

Six colleges from the three-state area of Kansas-Missouri-Nebraska hold regional chairs. They are Marymount College, Family Life and Catholic Action; College of Saint Teresa, Inter-American Relations; Creighton University, Inter-National Relations; St. Benedict's College, Inter-Racial Relations and Rural Life; Mount St. Scholastica College, Catholic Press and Confraternity of Christian Doctrine; and St. Mary's College, Science.

Meeting's Proposals

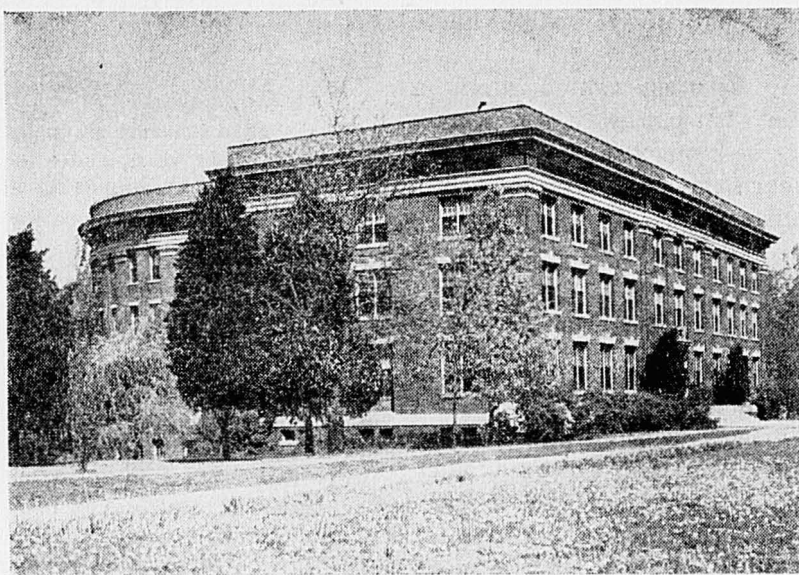

Several leading proposals were presented to the councils and regional chairmen. Among the most pressing problems considered were European war relief, external expansion, duties of officers, and a new system of selecting officers. It was deemed advisable that no more new commissions be established, and that the duties of the treasurer and recording secretary be incorporated into one office.

In order to promote greater publicity of the N.F.C.C.S. activities, St. Benedict's volunteered to organize a publicity committee for one year. Larry Dougherty, editor of the Rambler, will assume the responsibility.

Sacred Heart Junior College, Wichita, Kansas, has been selected as the site for the fall session of the N.F.C.C.S. to be held tentatively on the second Saturday of October.

Attending this vital meeting were moderators and students from all regions comprising the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

Rosemary was prepared to give a detailed report of the activities of the Central Mid-West Regional Commission on Inter-Americanism at the convention which met in the main ball room of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel.

Some of the well-known speakers, schooled in Inter-American projects who accentuated the assemblies with their presence included Rev. Francis J. Furley, president of Immaculata college; Rev. John J. Considine, vicar general of Maryknoll; Dr. Edgar J. Fisher, assistant director of the Institute of International Education; the Honorable Bernard Samuel, mayor of Philadelphia; Dr. Roy Tasco Davis, director of Inter-American Schools Service; Lt. Edward J. Kirchner, U.S.N.R., International vice-president of Pax Romans; and Rev. Charles E. Birmingham, director of Youth Department, N.C.W.C.

George Tidona's orchestra will play for the program dance which will last from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Under the general supervision of Jeanette Kramer, Kathleen Crooks was in charge of securing the place for the dance. Gloria Gilford, supervised the making of programs and Pat Mathews arranged for the engagement of an orchestra. Tickets are being sold through a committee headed by Eva Schekorra.

The management of the lake site is providing refreshments and decorations.

Parents of juniors who will act as chaperons are: Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Tyler, Jr. parents of Margaret Leonard; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mathews, parents of Pat Mathews; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilford, parents of Gloria Gilford, and Mrs. C. V. Carrollo, mother of Rose Marie Carrollo.

The juniors have announced that no tickets will be sold after May 3.

St. Teresa's Now Fully Accredited for Degrees

Mother Marietta, president of the College of St. Teresa, accompanied by Sister Gerard Joseph of the Education Department, attended the 51st annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Chicago, Illinois, from March 26th to 29th. At this meeting, St. Teresa's received membership in the Association.

Forty-eight delegates reviewed the twenty-three regional colleges that were seeking membership. Of the twenty-three, seven, including St. Teresa's were admitted.

Association's Aim

The object of the Association, founded in 1895 by a group of educators, is the development and maintenance of high standards of excellence for universities and colleges and continued improvement in the education program.

The Association extends to the colleges and secondary schools from Arizona on the Southwest to South Dakota on the Northwest and from Texas on the Southwest to Virginia on the Southeast. It is by far the largest educational affiliation in the United States and is accepted by every college in the country.

Affiliated with over 300 member colleges of the North Central Association, the College of St. Teresa has full power as a degree granting institution and is now recognized as a fully accredited four-year college for young women.

Announcement to Assembly

The formal announcement was made by Mother Marietta to the student body at the assembly period on Monday, April 1. She explained that this year the necessary four years had elapsed between the founding of the four-year college in 1941 and an application for membership in the North Central. Immediate acceptance was granted.

The twelve members of the class of '46 who completed courses in the four year Senior College, will be the first to receive degrees under the North Central.

Second Generations Present

Now attending the college is one student who represents the third generation of her family at St. Teresa's. Barbara Hutchings, sophomore, is the daughter of Mrs. Harland B. Hutchings (Vernita Hackett) and the grand-daughter of Mrs. Hackett who also attended the college.

Second generations are represented by a mother-daughter group consisting of Katherine and Mary Louise Hodes who were preceded at St. Teresa's by their mother, the former Rose Katherine Dierks. Margaret Reintjes has followed her mother, the former Margaret Mallott, in attending C.S.T. Mrs. Edmund Smith, mother of Martha, freshman, attended the college as Anna May Hogan. Nancy Stokes whose mother, the former Helen Ross attended St. Teresa's, is now a freshman. Rosemary Straufuss joins the mother-daughter group since her mother, Elizabeth Burnett, before marriage, was once a student at the college.

Is Lent Ever Over?

Lent is over! For forty days we have given up candy, refused that hourly cigarette, or looked askance every time someone offered us a coke. Many of us perhaps even attended daily Mass. But now the penitential season is over. Does that mean that we are going to forget our resolutions which we have kept or attempted to keep? Are we going to forget to repay Christ's blessings with some small sacrifices?

I know what you are saying, — Oh, but we have been holy so long! Aren't we ever supposed to be happy? How can we be truly happy always taking, never giving; always asking, never thanking; always complaining, never blessing?

Christ never got tired of giving. He often wanted to take a rest. With such thoughts as these, let's not put away our sacrificial resolutions until next Lent. Let us remember Him and willingly give to Him throughout the year some small offering, something hard, something that really hurts!

— Rosemary Flanigan.

Are You Suffering, Too?

Usually when a C.S.T. girl becomes listless, losing her normal appetite and natural enthusiasm, it is time for the doctors to move in. With their medical skill and wonder-working medicines, it is not long before they effect a cure. But then there's another kind of sickness, one that creeps in robbing her very fibers of their energy, a cowardly disease that floats in camouflaged by a gentle waft of violet scent or an innocent sun beam. You know what it is. You have it and so do I — spring fever!

Scientists with all their learning have not been able to discover its cure. The only sure sedative is a dive into an icy lake or what's more invigorating — a pleasant little Logic exam.

A Spring Fever victim (poor lass) is very easily recognized by her glassy stare. In the first stages, she is absent minded, giddy and much addicted to window gazing. As the disease begins to ravage her body, her eyes take on a gelatinous texture, her shoulders bend in rhythm to "Sioux City Sue" and she is completely lost to humanity until it rains and she is able to return to her normal salubrious state.

WARNING! It is rumored that an epidemic is storming C.S.T. All newly discovered cure methods are welcome at the office of the dean. For the hopeless cases we recommend an hour or two in 07 — guaranteed to cure or kill.

— Geraldine Carrigan.

Faculty Represented At Various Meetings

Mother Marietta and Sister Marguerite, dean, attended a special meeting at Kansas City University on April 29. The purpose of the conference was to discuss veteran education.

The College of St. Teresa has been recognized by the State of Missouri as an official institution for veteran training. At this time, a former WAVE, Mrs. Marion Casperson, is a member of the freshman class.

Sister St. Luke represented the college at the Catholic Library Association Convention in St. Louis. This was the 20th annual conference held from April 23 to 26.

Mother Marietta, president of the college, attended the 43rd annual meeting of the National Catholic Educational Association in St. Louis. The conference opened on April 22 with a Pontifical High Mass at the Cathedral. Discussions were held in the Kiel Auditorium and the Statler Hotel. The convention adjourned on April 26.

On April 27 the parochial school teachers of this district attended a lecture in visual education at the College. Mr. C. Lindsay of the National Catholic Educational Association exhibited films and discussed the topic.

Sister Pachomia and Dr. E. F. Witman attended a special meeting at Rockhurst College for all diocesan mathematics teachers. The discussion, held on April 27, was presided over by Father Doyle. The purpose of the gathering was to discuss methods of teaching secondary school mathematics.

Inter American Club Gives Annual Report

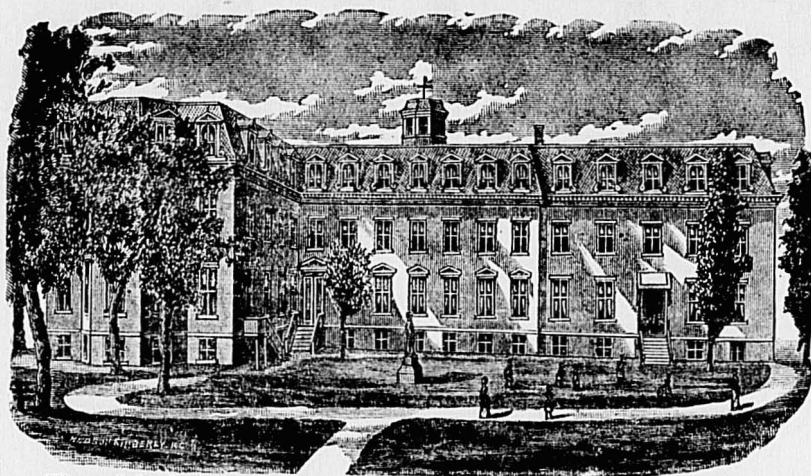

As this year's activities of the Central Mid-West Regional Commission on Inter-Americanism draw to a close, the College of St. Teresa is, indeed, proud of its progress in this field, as the I.A.C. has made notable advancement in regard to both regional and local projects.

For their monthly meetings the Inter-American club has taken the countries of South and Central America for study. At this time students volunteer to report on the history, climate, government, and current events of the country under discussion. Then a moving picture is shown to supplement their findings.

Spanish tables have been organized in the college cafeteria. One or two students from Central and South America preside at a table with Spanish-learning students and help them carry on the conversation in the language.

Before the close of the school term an Inter-American musicale and luncheon will be given by members of the Inter-American club.

At the last meeting of the club held April 10, Rosemary Kelly reported on the history of Costa Rica; Nancy Stokes on the government; Luanne Malsie on current events; and Gloria Sutter submitted a complete report of the year's activities. To close the program and provide entertainment, a moving picture entitled "Yucatan" was shown to the girls.

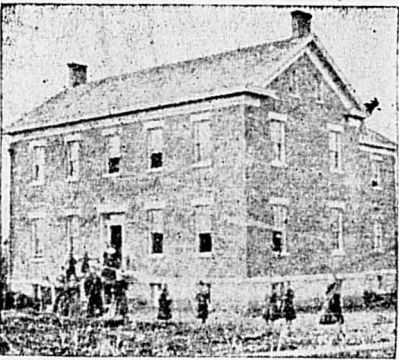

The original structure gradually developed into a more extensive building, and for many years, under the title now generally referred to as the 'Old Saint Teresa's' occupied its site with justifiable prestige.

Seventy Nine Years Shows Great Strides Made by St. Teresa's

Nearly a hundred years ago before the advent of streamlined coaches and comfortable travel by air, a small band of nuns made a dust covered journey from St. Louis, Mo., to the small settlement of Westport Landing. Under the protection of the beloved Father Bernard Donnelly, their purpose was to found a school of quality for the daughters of the pioneers of Westport Landing.

They came from a primitive log cabin on the banks of the Mississippi near St. Louis, the first convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet in the United States. They came to a two-story brick building which was to house the first Catholic girls' school in the region. Dedicating their work to St. Teresa of Avila, they began their task of educating from their vantage point on Quality Hill.

In 1867, the first building of Saint Teresa's Academy for Girls was established on "Quality Hill" at Twelfth and Washington Streets.

Imitating St. Teresa's virtues of high courage and great confidence in "le bon Dieu", the good nuns soon began to expand their building and to expand the scope of St. Teresa's.

As a reservoir in which is stored the full fruits of culture and aesthetic appreciation, St. Teresa's can outrank any other establishment of its kind. In the words of a graduate of the class of 1887, "No joy in my life has proven greater, for it is a treasure neither death nor robbers can take from me. Viva la Saint Teresa's!"

The "Old St. Teresa's" on Twelfth and Washington Streets was the height of a landscaper's dreams with its verdant well kept lawns and its luxurious trees. Still to be seen is the historic iron gate through which the girls used to pass each day. The gate stood guard as the girls passed from childhood to womanhood and were graduated one by one to take their places in the world.

It was from this solid foundation that the present college of St. Teresa emerged. It is a flowering of the bloom that was sown on Quality Hill over seventy-five years ago. The bloom is now full blown. Its petals are firm and deep colored. The aim has been reached, for St. Teresa's is now a fully accredited four-year College for the education of young women. "Viva la Saint Teresa's!"

Sodality Fosters Daily Rosary and Devotions

May being the month especially set aside in honor of the Blessed Mother, the Sodality of Our Lady of the college has chosen to venerate her in a special way. In order to give the students an opportunity to share in the many graces which Christ showers on men through our Blessed Mother, the Rosary will be said aloud every day, three times a day during the month of May. A May altar will be set up in the browsing room and, here, before the statue of Our Lady the rosary will be said.

Also, in thanksgiving for peace and the many other favors received, two days of prayer will be set aside during May. Each day will be divided into 15 minute periods and students will volunteer for meditation before the Blessed Sacrament.

Border Line

Sh-h-h! Don't make a sound or they'll hear us. Come on a little closer and you can see them through this hole in the underbrush. What a farce! After laying all those many multicolored Easter eggs, I'm thoroughly enjoying their scampering to and fro to look under tufts of grass, leaves, and stone benches. Cops, maybe I'd better introduce myself. Folks around here call me Easter Bunny! (Mr. Disney, Bugs Bunny.)

The grand occasion we celebrate on this gray, dreary, drizzling, droopy morning of Palm Sunday is the College Boarders' Annual Easter Hunt.

I've heard the girls here have a confused idea about Easter eggs and where they come from. They actually think they colored those eggs the night before. Such false propaganda! All these years I've slaved to give them a hunt each year and who gets the credit? Just who gets the credit! The college boarders, that's your answer. What a revoltin' development!

Now just one last look before I must move on to other little kiddies. Yes, everyone has found one of my lovely eggs, except that Jeanette Kramer. She's been raving the entire morning because she can't find an egg. Poor Jeanette! So someone has taken pity on her and given her one of her eggs. Eureka! Everyone is happy, so I'm off to Rockhurst.

VOICE for VICTORY

Et Cetera

Once again we creep into your presence and give forth our trivial observations on nothing at all — "Spring is here and we feel mellow We'd go to sleep if we had a pillow."

Margaret Roberts is already sporting a luscious tan. The only color we have been able to attain is a slight green — from envy!

Gloria Galvin is still trying to live down the notoriety which the unwanted attentions (yes!) of a certain persistent suitor brought her. "A car doesn't always make the man," says Glo!

Snooper says Mary Gent is again being seen around with "Bill." We've always been told there's nothing deader than an old flame, but we could be wrong!

Kathleen Dreiling is deserving of our warmest felicitations for winning the best actress award in the recent CYC play contest. You can get bees with honey say we.

Katie Froeschl's brother Phil has returned from his travels and once again certain members of the sophomore class are happy. Just what has the man got that gets 'em? Besides being a Froeschl, that is?

We stop in the middle of a word and gaze wistfully at Pat Moran climbing into her new car — all her very own. We sigh — and hope!

No matter how hard Marybeth Malsie tries little situations keep popping up. Scene: a certain radio station, Action: Three young men appear each to take her home. Well, what would you do? ? ?

Mary Jean Burke is all smiles these days — Peanut is home! We're certainly glad he's back. The strain has been terrific — for all of us!

Problem: Why is Marjorie McGonigle affectionately known as "Shoes McGoo" lately? Just ask her — she might be telling!

Time grows short and Pat Lester remains as unflattered as ever. When we decide to take the fatal plunge we'll consult Pat on how to achieve unruffled composure through it all. It's magnificent!

Well, ta, ta, kiddies, see you at the prom. Be sure to look lovely!

The Gleam May, 1923

April 20—The first message over the radio was received by the student body. Mr. Sweeney, who installed the radio, gave a special talk to the girls of St. Teresa's Junior College and Academy. He stressed the position of women in the world today, and the importance of educational training to safe-guard this position . . . The boarders have even heard the "Night Hawks" a few times.

April 21: The Senior class entertained with benefit bridge party at Margaret Morley's home.

April 26: The College Department gave a bazaar for the Missions. It was held in the gymnasium of the school.

. . . May 29—The College classes enjoyed the day at Swope Park.

. . . May 31—The seniors gave the annual prom, a supper dance, at Mission Hills Country Club . . . The guests began to gather about nine-thirty and by ten the floor was quite crowded. About seventy persons were present.

. . . We are happy to be able to announce as this issue of The Gleam goes to press that St. Teresa Junior College has been admitted to membership in the American Association of Junior Colleges. We believe St. Teresa's is the first Catholic Junior College to be so recognized.

. . . Sister: "What are you doing, Beatrice?"

Beatrice: "Nothing, Sister."

Sister: "And what are you doing, Dorothy?"

Dorothy: "Helping Beatrice, Sister."

Freshie: I wish I had your knowledge of physics.

Senior: You have!

High School Seniors Honored at Reception

A tea will be held for high school seniors of all diocesan schools at the college on May 16 at 3 o'clock. The girls have been invited to attend by the dean.

Entertainment will be provided by the Radio Production Class. Escorts will be provided for those desiring to see the various departments of the school.

Mother's Guild Plans Spring Card Party

Climaxing this year's program, the Mother's Guild will sponsor a Spring Card Party in the gym of the Music and Arts building on Monday, May 6. Mrs. J. J. Burke and Mrs. T. J. Cronin, as co-chairmen, plan to raffie a table model Zenith radio at the party. The gift was donated by a member of the Guild.

A style show will be presented by the members of the academy sewing class while the college girls will assist with prizes and refreshments.

Card playing will follow the style show and prizes will be distributed. The mothers of the college and academy freshmen will act as hostesses.

The following is reprinted from the Rockhurst Sentinel:

"And may we add that the right men are Rockhurst men? We most assuredly may. Our associate janitor, the Horse, who is a highly regarded logician, informs us that it doesn't necessarily follow that C.S.T. girls are the right girls — We agree."

And we may add: C.S.T. girls have been getting along all right without Rockhurst men for quite some time now.

Freshies Should Know!

Not so long ago the noted research scientist, lecturer, potato peeler, and bubble blower, Dr. Hans N'Feet, was called to his native country, his and Lena the Hyena's birth place, Lower Slobbovia, to check the dreadful disease that had already struck thousands of victims and which was threatening to strike more. Upon his arrival at the airport, he was met by Luscious Lena, the heart-throb of millions and whisked away to his laboratory.

There for days on end he labored, trying to perfect his serum; the serum which would save humanity from total destruction. He subjected thousands of volunteers to the most gruesome of experiments only to find his victims overcome by the plague. The Red Cross set up relief stations by the hundreds to help the unfortunate. The doctor was having a race against time attempting to find a cure. Slowly the dreaded pestilence reached the workers engaged in all professions and occupations.

Alas, the good doctor succumbed to this fever! Now it was a question of days before this incurable illness reached the schools. If the victim could be treated during the early stages, the disease could be curtailed.

Distress signals have been sent to all parts of the globe. Tons of money have come in from the more fortunate nations to provide relief for the distressed. Gradually the plague is spreading. The authorities in the United States feel certain that the pestilence can spread from Lower Slobbovia across the seven moons to our country. The Bureau of Feverous Fevers have asked you, the public, this question with the hope that you will offer some solution: Is there a cure for spring fever?

Picnic and Games Fill Field Day Program

A college Field Day of Sports will be held on the campus on May 21. The meet will start at 10:15 with a relay race. Each class will have one team of four girls.

Following the race, a baseball game will take place between the juniors and seniors on one side and the freshmen putting up the opposition. Father J. J. Killgallon will umpire the game.

A picnic lunch will be served on the campus at noon.

The afternoon events consist of a volleyball and a basketball game. In basketball, the seniors have challenged the sophomores; whereas, the volleyball teams will be composed of girls from each class.

I. R. C. Discusses Ideas For Public Forum

At the monthly International Relations Club meeting on April 14, the group reviewed the discussions held at the conference in Emporia, Kansas. Under the guidance of the president, Marjorie McGonigle, plans were drawn up for a public forum. Suggested topics for discussion are: United States foreign policy and international labor problems.

The Rosary will be said at school every day during May. Can't you join a group?

Bay Mild by L. J. Kintziger

The complex lives of the fishermen of the Lake Michigan region are summed up in the character of Bay Mild. The story deals particularly with the little town of Baysette on Noqueta Bay. Written in an informal but somewhat cynical style, it pictures the humble fisherman in his native surroundings. Politics play a minor but necessary part in the plot development and it seems at times that the book was written for the sole purpose of condemning all big cities in general, and Chicago, in particular.

Bay is a timid child, avoiding all intercourse with his neighbors. In his own words, he was just a "dirty, smelly, ragged bum!" Neida never prepared clean clothing for the lad. At school he had been the most unkept child in his class and was always ashamed of his appearance. He concealed his attraction to one of the girls, Ruth Thielli. If the truth had been told, Ruth was also interested in Bay.

A stranger comes to town, Truk Feader, who, after enticing Bay into showing him the tricks of the fishing trade, begins using deep trap nets to catch all the good white fish and also begins courting Ruth Thielli.

Truk illustrates his evil disposition quite frequently, but his sinister character is displayed on the night of the big storm. Bay in the "Helen M." and Truk in a lighter boat are trapped by an ice-flow, far out into the lake. Bay could have escaped but resolved to break a way for the smaller boat through the crushing ice. In doing this, the "Helen M." was hopelessly caught and Bay was pinned between the boat and a jagged ice cake. While he was losing consciousness, his only hope was the sound of Truk's motor as it seemingly struggled to his rescue.

Waking in the hospital and finding his leg amputated, Bay believes he owes his life to Truk, and he therefore persuades Ruth to marry Truk. Ruth decides that since she loves Bay so much, she will be glad to pay his debt. Later, after the wedding, while examining the lake bed, Bay finds that the marks made by Truk's propeller were in reverse and that Truk had been trying to get away from the ice jam. But the damage is already done.

Ruth and Truk's son is an abnormal child with hideous features. He takes delight in killing all little things he can find and in destroying just for the sake of evil. Ruth's life is a hard one and Bay suffers just as much as she does, although he does not allow himself to speak to her or go near her house.

The climax occurs when Truk's son wades out one day to spear fish and slips in the hole that had been dug out by his father's propeller on the night of the storm. In attempting to run to his rescue, Truk falls on his son's spear, and both are drowned.

The conclusion does not do justice to the author's splendid development of the rest of the plot. Accidental death is one solution but Mr. Kintziger could have brought about the destruction of the evil Truk and his offspring in a manner that would have seemed more probable. There are undertones of something about a

Homecoming Set for May 19 By Alumnae

The annual Alumnae Homecoming date has been set for May 19. All living members of the St. Teresa Alumnae Association have been notified of this day of prayer and social meetings.

The program will open with Holy Mass at 8:30. Breakfast will be served in the cafeteria of Donnell Hall at 9:30. The Academy juniors will serve.

At 10:30 a conference will be held on spiritual matters.

Lunch will be served in Donnelly Hall to the members. After a business meeting at 1:30 and a conference at 2:00, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will close the traditional Homecoming day.

Mrs. Richard O'Meara (Margaret Reilly, 1894), the oldest living member of the Alumnae, died last week at her home in Kansas City.

Redecorations in the bowling alleys, which have been sponsored by the Alumnae Association, have been completed. The facilities will be ready for general use soon.

On April 25, Mayme di Maggio, College 1942, was married to Anthony D'Agostino. Mrs. D'Agostino also attended the Catholic University in Washington where she received her Master's degree.

The monthly meeting of the Cacialian Choral Club was held on Sunday, April 14 in the Georgian Lounge. The purpose of the business meeting was to discuss the spring recitals for music students.

A publicity committee for the choral club concerts will consist of Shirley Brandt, Catherine Tristano, Regina Kilkenny, Lillian Armijo, Genevieve Storms, Catherine Borne, and Anna Marie Brian.

One recital will be devoted to music majors particularly and another will be set aside for music students.

At the conclusion of the business meeting Sister M. Victorine discussed the Music Educator Convention which she recently attended in Cleveland. At this conference, delegates from South America, Canada, and New Zealand were present.

Two new members have been received into the Choral club. They are Betty Beck, sophomore, and Mary Regina Francis, freshman.

need of religion, Catholicism in particular. Bay needs some force in his lonely, unsuccessful life besides frustrated love. Kintziger could have made a more forceful story if he had brought this out, instead of killing off the villains.

Jesuit Stimulates a Greater Love of God

Drawing a parallel between God and His creatures, Rev. Robert Southard, S.J., of Rockhurst college conducted two consecutive illustrated lectures on April 7th and 14th. The purpose of the talks was to increase love of God by an appreciation of the things He has made. "This will help to develop a primary loyalty — a loyalty to God," Father stated.

In the first lecture, Father showed the beauty of natural scenes such as the Grand Canyon, Yellowstone Lake and Yellowstone Falls, and the various stages of the sunset as compared with man-made beauty.

Analogies were also drawn between man-made architecture, painting, and sculpture, to the architecture of Nature's mountains and the delicate tints and designs of God's creations.

Animals, plants, and insects were also shown in the slides. They ranged from microscopic pictures of the fly's eye to slides of elephants and giraffes.

Incidents from the life of Christ concluded the lectures with a reference to a poem by Rev. John Banister Tabb:

"I see Thee in the distant Blue
But in the violets' dell of dew,
Behold, I breathe and touch Thee, too."

Ping Pong Tournaments Attract Freshmen

The beginning of the freshman ping pong tournament, Tuesday, April 9, hints the need of respect for the name of Powers. For the slam-bang, off side serving and return of Mary Jo has netted her two victims.

In the Tuesday game Powers brushed off Geraldine Carrigan with two consecutive wins of 21-9 and 21-17.

Thursday's play-off presented double results. Martha Smith outswatted Carrigan 21-15 and 21-19, only to be defeated by Powers. In a nip-and-tuck battle all the way, Mary Jo powerfully batted down Martha Smith. The score read 21-14 Powers, 21-13 Smith, and 21-11 Powers.

Remaining contestants are: Madeline Fronke, Mary Schorfeide, and Gloria Sutter.

Can you recognize these "campus cuties": Marjorie McGonigle, Louise McNellis, Betty Kearns, Mary Anne Miller, Jean Male, Helen Jane Gray, and Germania Izurieta?

Missions Have Benefit

Sponsored by the Missions, a cake sale was held in the college cafeteria on Friday, April 12. The purpose of the cake sale was to raise money for one of the current mission projects.

It consists of mailing mimeographed letters explaining Jesuit relief to Catholic lay women who might be interested in mailing gift packages over seas. This work was begun with the cooperation of Father Thomas Knapp, S.J., president of Rockhurst college.

The volunteer serving committee for the cake sale consisted of: G. Gilford, B. Ritchie, J. Kramer, G. Carrigan, V. Sullivan, M. J. Powers, and M. L. McConnell.

A total of $26 was made on the project.

Science Club Meeting Has Guest Speaker

An open meeting of the Sigma Chi Iota, science club, was addressed by Dolores Riley '45, on May 1. Dolores is now engaged as chief chemist at T.W.A. and has recently returned from an extensive trip in the East visiting plastic laboratories.

She gave a discussion on the new plastic materials including fabrics woven from extruded resins, and super-fine glass fibers and plastic-coated fabrics which are used for draperies and upholstery. The advantages of these fabrics are numerous. They are light-weight, resistant to burning; have long durability because of their high tear strength and abrasive resistance; non-absorptive and unstained by water, ink, coffee, etc.; cleaned by wiping off. The future of these fabrics includes the possibility of their being used for clothing.

This was the last lecture of the year for the club. The final meeting will be devoted to constitutional business.

Seniors Defeat Juniors In Pre-Easter Game

The junior-senior basketball game held on April 17 at noon brought defeat to the juniors with a score of 17 to 11. Captain Kathleen Froeschl headed the team of seniors which was composed of Helen Jane Gray, Louise McNellis, Gloria Galvin, Marjorie McGonigle, and Mary Anne Miller (a sophomore who helped to fill out the number). Mary Alice McGinley supervised the juniors — Katherine McGuire, Katherine Childs, Gloria Gilford, Rose Marie Carrollo, Bobby Fritton, and Margaret Leonard.

The first quarter gave evidence of Galvin's talents with the ball. She made three field goals while McNellis brought the senior score to seven with a free throw. Katherine McGuire scored the only goal for the juniors with a free throw.

In the second quarter, Galvin made a field goal and a free throw while McNellis netted the seniors two points with free throws. Score at the half was 14 to 1.

During the third quarter, Galvin again was the high scorer, bringing the seniors' total to 17.

Although the score seemed unapproachable, the juniors used their last bit of energy in the final quarter and made some amazing baskets. Katherine McGuire did her part by four field goals and one free throw which more than doubled their amount. The seniors emerged victorious with a score of 17 to 11.

Missionary Relates Catholic Conditions In Latin America

Revealing the startling facts that there are only 26 priests for 33,000 souls in Central America, the Rev. F. O'Donnell, S.J., from British Honduras, gave a short talk and showed motion pictures on Catholic missionary activities in South America to mission-minded students on April 12, in the assembly hall.

Father O'Donnell, formerly a professor at St. John's College, British Honduras, related the special dangers to the faith in South America. These are caused by the lack of missionary activities and by the zeal of smaller and newer religious sects. Our Very Reverend Bishop, Edwin V. O'Hara, described British Honduras as the "shining light of South America."

Vastly impeded by the lack of priests, nuns, and schools, the Catholic Church has nevertheless made much progress. This was illustrated by the movies shown by Father. This lecture and the movies were given as a special project to acquaint the students with the April intention of Our Holy Father — the preservation of the faith in Latin America.
